THE WRECKER OF DREAMS

A Story in Four Parts

by C. R. Halpin Jr.

PART II

"Good bye, Helen," said Billy Summers, as he and Helen Porter stood upon the station platform that November morning. "I'll be back, my dear in a few months. This war will not last long, and we will love each other the more for having been apart."

"Yes, Billy," replied Helen through her tears. "I will wait for you, ever if needs be. Good bye Billy, and don't forget to write." A last kiss was exchanged and then the command, "Fall in!" was given and the troops were entrained and were soon on their way to an unknown destination, the first stop on their way to "Flanders."

The gory God of Mars looked down upon the peaceful world and grew impatient. Too long had the world forgotten to do homage to him. The dove of peace, his greatest enemy had gained too great a following on this green planet, and the God of War was jealous.

"I am the mightiest King of all the universe," said the War. "No man nor nation can do homage to other than I. The white dove of peace will be stained a gory red. I will teach this too peaceful world that I am master of all. None can stay my hand."

So manipulating the affairs of man and nations, soon he had the world plunged into its greatest conflict. A conflict that was to lay in the dust many of the most beautiful cities and villages of Europe. That was to tear to ribbons the face of the earth and take its toll of lives of thousands of the world's finest and most valiant youth. A conflict that was to make itself felt throughout all countries of the world, and was not to end until the nations emerged from the carnage broken and spent, hardly able to struggle along through the aftermath. In four short years, the work of centuries was destroyed and the dove of peace was forgotten.

The zero hour had come—the troops stood at their posts awaiting the order to advance. (The War Chief must be fed). The guns along the sector were stilled for a moment—a silence that could be felt settled upon the waiting lines. It seemed to press down upon the troops standing impatient, awaiting for the order to be given. It seemed to smother them, anything but the dreadful silence would be welcomed by those youths standing at arms in that front line trench.

Swiftly an airplane dated out from its hangar, up and up it rose—the whirr of its motors grew dimmer as it vaulted toward the rising sun. (The eyes of the army were opened). Soon the radio operator in the plane sent a message to the gun battery and the barrage started. Boom-boom-boom, the silence was shattered as the field guns went into action. The ground shook and trembled. With a deafening roar the barrage advanced—lifted for a moment, then the Khaki clad troops went over the top. Ahead of them the barrage dropped again, tearing out barbed wire, ripping great craters in the earth, and moving on to the first line trenches. It took its great toll. On rushed the troops—youths most of them, who only a few months ago had little thought of war, but whom the God of War had summoned. The first trench was taken, then the second lay just ahead. Rat-tat-tat-tat, a machine gun nest opened fire—youths fell on all sides—many killed and maimed for life—and on others pushed. At last the position was captured and the toll was counted.

In a base hospital Billy Summers lay 'twixt life and death. Around his cot hovered doctors and nurses, and though used to such cases, this one seemed different from the others. The youth seemed more compelling, more sensitive than the rest. As they stood, and watched, and waited, Billy began to murmur to himself, then smiling, he began to talk. "Good bye, Helen—the train goes in a few minutes and this will be our last time together for a few months, but I'll be back when the war is over and we'll be married. . . . don't cry Helen, it is hard enough to part as it is, please don't cry. . . . I only makes it harder. . . . I love you so dear and will write often. . . . you'd not love me if I didn't go to help my country. . . . good bye dear girl, goodbye—good bye mother please don't cry so much—I had to enlist, it would be wrong if I didn't. . . . you'd not want me to be a slacker—God will keep me safe—I love you so much, mother, oh please smile—I'll be home soon. . . . keep the light burning for me. . . . Oh, daddy, good bye. . . . I hope you'll be proud of me—it will be hard to do without you daddy—but you understand, don't you daddy?—good bye biddie, I'm going up the line tonight, but will see you when this push is over—Tell the folks you saw me when you write home, and tell them not to worry—I'll be home soon—you've been a good pal, good bye. . . . write when you can. . . . good bye." With tears trickling down his pale cheeks, but with a smile on his face, he sighed and then lay still.

God has claimed another," said the Doctor, brushing a tear from his eye. "No," replied the nurse, suppressing a sob. "The Wrecker of Dreams" has triumphed again."

WHEAT POOL NOTES

The Alberta Wheat Pool handled a total of 217,816,641 bushels of wheat during the first five year contract period with a gross turnover of $276,350,411, according to the report of R. D. Purdy, manager, presented to the annual delegate's meeting being held in Calgary this week.

It was further stated that second series contract covering 4,074,771 acres had been signed at October 1st, 1928, which acreage is 2,226 greater than the sign up of the first series contracts. The average acreage per contract under the Second Series is 116 as compared to 93 acres under the First Series.

1200 contracts have been recorded, which is by far a greater number than during any similar period of the operation of the Wheat Pool.

During the crop year 1927-28 the Alberta Pool handled 71,116,189 bushels of which 48,083,507 bushels, or 67 per cent, were shipped to the Pacific coast and the balance east.

Administration costs of the Alberta Pool during the past year were approximately 7.20 of a cent a bushel.

The elevator and commercial receipts of funds together now total $5,400,000.

The records of these reserves are handled by the Growers' Department and in connection with this work 53,000 accounts of growers are involved.

During the past year over 508,000 pieces of mail were handled, being an average of 1600 pieces for each working day.

JOFFIE NEWS

Mr. Procter and Happy Camp, motored to Innisfail on Saturday and brought back a Buick Roadster.

We are very sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Sage, which occurred on Friday night. He was an old time resident of the district.

A few families of this district motored to Buffalo Lake on Sunday for a fishing party. They caught several fish and would have had a very pleasant day, had it not been for an accident. Happy Camp was taking a turn on the skidder after the excitement of fishing was over. He did not notice a hole of open water until he was into it. The water was over 10 ft. deep and if it had not been for the timely assistance of a crowd of some of the men around, he would have lost his life. As it was, we hope he will soon be around as fit as ever.

Hector and Ed. Middleton left on Monday for California, where they expect to spend about a year.

EDMONTON MAN HURT NEAR LACOMBE

Skidding in a loose gravel patch on the Calgary and Edmonton trail north of Lacombe, the Pontiac coach driven by H. Hanson left the trail and toppled into the ditch. Mr. Hanson escaped injury, but Fred Conroy, of Edmonton, who was a passenger in the car, suffered a broken collar bone. The car is reported as being a total wreck.

FAST THINKER OR DESPERATE MAN?

Here is a pretty problem for the experts in mental processes. Harry Lipschutz, a New York bandit, is the specimen to be examined. Lippie was engaged in robbing an insurance official of a batch of money, when another of the office staff gave fight. The bandit is struggling on the floor when a policeman appears.

Now Lippie already has served three terms in prison. A fourth conviction, under the laws of New York state, meant life imprisonment. Lippie also has a wife, a comely woman in her twenties, and the real thing according to her wayward husband. Further, he carries $10,000 insurance probably in the very company he is trying to rob.

As the policeman came up on the run, Lipschutz shouted: Look out for the machine gun. In crook parlance, an automatic pistol is often referred to as a machine gun. But the patrolman didn't shoot. He merely banged the bandit on the bottom, and when Lippie woke up he was safely tucked away in a cell.

Says the bandit later revealing his thoughts as he lay struggling on the floor: "A fourth conviction, the rest of my life in jail. I haven't been much use to my wife so far. She's young, could do nicely with $10,000, and I might as well be dead. I can't get out of this jam. If I fighten the cop into shooting me and do the wife one good turn anyway."

So he yelled "Look out for the machine gun."

Problem: Did the bandit really decide to tell a pragmatic hero, or was he simply trying to frighten the policeman in a desperate hope he could still escape?

Victoria to Have an Old English Yuletide Festival

When old Thomas Tusser, corn fifty years before Shakespeare, wrote At Christmas, play and make good cheer, For Christmas comes but once a year.

he made certain the success of "The Farmer's Daily Diet," a grandparent of "Four Richard's Almanac" filled with sober agricultural lore and sober maxims of thrift and honesty. Englishmen have needed no urging to follow Tusser's welcome advice, and have celebrated joyously the "Twelve Days of Christmas" except during the Reformation and under the regime of the Ironsides when such festivities were frowned upon. But it remained for Dickens and Washington Irving in America to revive with their magic pen the old Yuletide spirit.

We on this continent have long fashioned our Christmas celebrations on the model of the old English Christmas, which we have memorably described in the writings of Dickens and Irving. But during the coming Christmas the festivities hallowed by six centuries of English tradition will come alive as never before, and for their setting they will have the city of Victoria, B.C., which has been called "a corner of England on the Pacific coast." Here, in the Empress Hotel, an Old English Yuletide Festival is to open on Dec. 22. The holly and ivy and rosemary, celebrated in English song all flourish in Victoria, and will furnish the traditional setting for the carolling, the wassailing, the wassailing, the Twelfth Night merrymaking, the Yule log, the mistletoe, and the other delights that warmed Geoffrey Chaucer's heart.

Harold Eustace Key, director of Canada's major music festival, is arranging the musical program for the mighty concerts at the Empress Hotel. He has in hand a representation of "Wardle's Christmas," as immortalized by Dickens in the "Christmas Carol." This is to have a running commentary of Yuletide music to set off the charming fables of the lovely "naughty characters." Dr. Healy William of the Toronto Conservatory of Music has composed for the occasion incidental music to "The Christmas Mysteries," a Christmas play selected from a group of medieval pageants, which used to be enacted by the trade guilds of Chester, England, dealing with the timeless theme of the shepherds and the Babe of Bethlehem. The first performance of these Mysteries was in 1729, and it has since been played again.

Board of Trade Banquet

An audience of close to 200 people listened to addresses by Hon. Perrin Baker, Minister of Education, and Dr. Wallace, President of the University, at the Board of Trade banquet on Friday evening.

A splendid musical program by Miss Helen Barbour and Mr. John MacDonald entertained the diners, while they disposed of the bounteous repast provided by the ladies of St. Andrew's Church. Solo by Miss Sims and Mr. R. Rhind were also much appreciated. Nov. 30th being St. Andrew's Day, Rev. D. B. Layton proposed a toast to Scotland's patron saint.

The Chairman, Mr. E. H. Jones, then asked Mr. G. E. Delong to introduce Miss Nellie Crawford and Miss Margaret Roper, the two young ladies who won, together with other prizes, the free trip to Toronto Fair, at the Swine Club competition held in Calgary, recently. Mr. Delong paid high tribute to Mr. Gavin Barbour, their coach, who is engaged in swine promotion work in Alberta, and an outstanding live stock man, and 'who is not only able to pick good animals, but is able also to pick good girls.' The young ladies and Mr. Barbour were asked to stand and receive the plaudits of the gathering, for their remarkable achievements.

Mr. Barbour expressed appreciation on behalf of himself and the girls who had been in the club only three seasons. It was teamwork on the part of the girls and the support of the entire club which made their victory possible, said Mr. Barbour.

Hon. Perrin Baker, upon being introduced, remarked upon the ability of the local Board of Trade in being able to assemble such a large representative gathering, and also commended the girls on their fine work.

Proceeding to outline the proposed revision of the School Act, which he said would have to do only with rural schools, Mr. Baker mentioned three phases in the problem of education. A sufficient number of schools to give our young people as good an education as we can. As far a distribution of the burden as can be afforded, and the one big problem of the quality of the training that shall be given the children when they are in school, this latter problem depending upon the quality of the teacher. Mr. Baker feels that in none of these respects are we doing as well as could be done.

Although operation of our schools has improved and 90 p.c. of them are open for at least eight months of the year, yet there still remains the short term of school. Towns, villages and cities are bearing the brunt of secondary education, and neither is the brunt of primary education equally distributed. Under the system now in operation a man in one district may be paying school taxes at the rate of three mills, while the same sort of man in another district is being charged 70 mills. It is an injustice to have one district paying more than another.

Schools are continually being manned by young teachers just out of Normal; some of them do good work, but there is not sufficient supervision to give inexperienced teachers the help needed. Also the rural schools are constantly losing the best teachers. Every year there are at least 700 positions to be filled. Not only are the best teachers lost, but there is no way of eliminating the unfit. The teacher who does not make a success in one school merely applies for another school the next year. The only way of eliminating inefficiency at present is that the Minister shall cancel their certificates, which is pretty drastic.

Then again there is no way of bringing intelligence to bear in the placing of teachers. Some schools are being run by teachers who are not other schools, need a teacher who is strong on discipline, but all the local board have to choose from is a sheaf of applications which do not tell them much about the dispositions of the various applicants. How solve the problem of placing teachers with 2800 school boards looking for teachers? And how retain the kind of teacher you want when there is no prospect of getting more than $1000.00 salary after teaching ten years? There is no way round them when you go to the root of the matter and making vital changes in the system of administration which we have inherited.

Mr. Baker's scheme to improve the present system was outlined as follows: The province to be divided into 25 divisions of 150 schools each, these divisions in turn being divided into five wards, each unit appointing a representative to serve on the unit above them. A representative from each division would make up the provincial board of 20 members. The division in turn would be comprised of five directors, one from each ward, also a Superintendent and two assistant teachers, whose duty it would be to travel throughout their territory, giving the necessary assistance to inexperienced teachers; placing teachers in schools most suited to their ability, and locating and dispensing with the inefficient teacher. Salaries of deserving teachers would be raised according to their experience and merits.

Two methods of financing this scheme were outlined by Mr. Baker. Each of the 25 divisions could control their own taxation or a fixed mill rate could be set by the province for all, which would result in a greater stability and a better degree of equalization. Adoption of either of these schemes, Mr. Baker felt would make for full time operation in every school.

would provide for the best secondary education that is possible in a country like this; would eliminate cause of much quarrelling in local communities; would result in better supervision and eliminate inefficiency, as the kind of people we want to teach our children could be held. 'The schools we have inherited from our fathers do not meet the need of the present day. It is not good enough to trust our children to a continual stream of inexperienced and immature people,' said Mr. Baker.

A hearty ovation greeted Dr. Wallace as he arose after being introduced by the Chairman. Dr. Wallace struck a high note of idealism and inspiration in his address, stressing the fact that there should be developed in our boys and girls a taste for the finer things of life. There comes to all of us times when we are thrown back upon our resources said Dr. Wallace and we should be able to use that time to advantage. 'If we cannot revel in some mental form of beauty, music, literature, art, or nature, then we are not educated. In illustration of his point, Dr. Wallace referred to Earl Grey, who is familiar with all bird life, and Col. Roosevelt who was so well acquainted with all bird life, spending a week together studying and talking of birds, then going back to the affairs of state well refreshed. Students who attend the higher institutions of learning would not only attain to these things, but gain a practical knowledge of what is going on in research work both in and out of the province.

Dr. Wallace also emphasized the importance of having teachers with a good personality, as they leave the greatest influence upon the lives of their pupils. Great people who have influenced us in life have said very little, but we knew what they really did said the speaker.

A vote of thanks was given by Mayor G. T. Jackson to the ladies who prepared the supper and to the musicians; and Mr. W. P. Puffer, with a few appropriate remarks moved a vote of thanks to the speakers.

More than 11,000,000 tourists visited Ontario during 1938 and spent about $100,000,000, according to figures issued at the Provincial Parliament Building in Toronto on the other day. This is an increase of over 20 per cent. over the record made last year.

Production of tobacco in 1938 totaled 40,376,375 pounds from 43,138 acres. Of the total output the Province of Ontario accounted for 32,265,850 pounds from 32,654 acres; Quebec $144,225 pounds from 10,368 acres, and British Columbia 164,200 pounds from 116 acres.

Eibel Catherwood, who distinguished himself as a bagpiper representing Canada at the Olympic games in Amsterdam in August, has been honored by the Canadian Pacific Railway. A station on the recently constructed Rosetown-Perdue branch has been named "Catherwood" after her.

Twenty-five years ago Thomas Hubert, now employed as a bagpiper on the C. P. R. between Ottawa and North Bay, lost a valuable silver watch while working in a field near Pembroke. The other day a glittering object was turned by a plough. It was Hubert's watch, the glass broken and the hands gone, but still retaining a brilliant lustre. The field had been ploughed many times since it was lost.

Toronto is preparing to receive the largest number of prominent baseball figures ever to be in Canada at one time. The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues will meet there shortly and every baseball club in America will be represented. Judge Lauder will be on hand, and the total attendance is expected to amount to over five hundred delegates coming from points as far as Pueblo.

The trainload of artificial snow that was brought from Hollywood to Lake Louise recently was not required by John Barrymore, in producing an Alpine movie story to be released shortly, as plenty of the real stuff was available at the glaciers. This popular actor, with Camilla Horn and a cast of about twenty-five persons, spent some three weeks at the Chateau Lake Louise rising each morning at four o'clock in order to reach their "locations" on Victoria and Saddleback glaciers in time to get the best light effects in the morning for their various "shots."

When a young couple from Calgary drifted back to the station at Winnipeg 10 minutes after the "Imperial" had left for the east, Canadian Pacific officials were given the choice the other day of feeding and otherwise caring for a nine-month-old baby for two days or holding the train for thirty-five minutes at North Winnipeg. They chose the latter, much to the relief of the porter and conductor who are not family men.

W.I. OFFICERS ELECTED

Election of officers at the annual meeting of the Women's Institute held in the Rest Room on Saturday last, resulted as follows: President, Mrs. T. Roberts; Vice Pres., Mrs. W. Newton; Rec. Secretary, Mrs. R. Saunders; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Sansbury; Board of Directors; Messdames, F. Taylor, J. Paul, O. Blue, Sherrer. Resolutions were passed to hold a Baby Clinic in June and to have a demonstrator of Raffle work come in March or April. Mrs. O. Young read a very carefully prepared paper on "Canadianization," emphasizing the point that it must not be thought that the people of foreign races (many of whom have produced great leaders in music, literature, etc.) who settle in our land are inferior to our own race, as the difference lies only in the dissimilarity of our customs of living and thinking. A note of idealism was brought to her listeners by the retiring President, Mrs. J. Paul, who chose as her subject "Our Motives—For Home and Country." Gifts were presented to two members having perfect attendance throughout the year, those so honored being Messdames McWilliams and Todd. Members who have missed more than three meetings are being asked to entertain the organization at a social afternoon.

A NEW RECORD

A new record was set for Alberta in the disposal of MacKenzie Bros. of Lacombe, of Earl Marshall, the steer which recently won the Grand Championship of Vancouver, for a net sum of $1250.00. This steer which was bred by Prince Marshall had owned by S. Henderson, of Lacombe, weighed 1250 lbs., and was purchased by Jackson Bros., of Vancouver at $100 per lb. This is believed to be the highest price ever paid for an Alberta Fed Steer.

CANADA'S RELATIONS WITH

Inequality of conditions of trade between the Dominion and the States is not the only case in which this country has reason to complain of unfair treatment. The allocation of radio waves is another. The United States Radio Commission has arrogated to itself complete control over broadcasting privileges on this continent. What Canada or Mexico may need in the way of exclusive wave lengths comes after the requirements of the United States have been fully satisfied, in the opinion of that body. The present distribution is six for Canada and seventy-four for the States. At long last the radio officials at Ottawa have taken a firm stand against this unfair discrimination and some more equitable arrangement may be arrived at. The St. Lawrence deep waterway is another international question demanding some stiffening of spine on the part of the Dominion. Mr. Hoover is keen for the project. He is committed to carrying it out, but about the time he was expressing his enthusiasm for it to the farmers of the middle west, Secretary of State Kellogg, of peace pact fame, held the bludgeon to Canada's head by declaring that if this country would not consent to proceed with the scheme the United States would go ahead with bringing the alternative route from Buffalo to New York up to modern requirements.

This country can afford to let the costly St. Lawrence waterway project stand over for the present. It cannot afford to bind itself to the huge expenditure involved in its completion. The farmers in the middle west states may require a short water outlet to the sea, but their necessity should not be a consideration affecting Canadian consent to going ahead with it. What is best for the Dominion is of first importance.

An embargo on the export of Canadian raw material is a weapon which the Canadian government may wield with good effect in negotiating for more favorable terms with Uncle Sam. Shipping out raw products and importing them later in a manufactured state is not the way to build up Canadian industry.

The time has arrived for the Dominion to adopt a more virile attitude in trade matters.

WHY SLAM THE PAPERS?

Hon. George Hoadley has been after the newspapers again. He says the papers exaggerated the proportions of the wheat crop; with the result that prices were depressed and farmers got less for their grain than they should have got. Coming to particulars, the minister said the report of a total yield of 558,000,000 bushels was far in excess of the actual yield. But no such estimate was published by the papers generally, and it was against the papers in general that Mr. Hoadley made his complaint. The nearest came to committing the alleged offence was on Nov. 14th when they published a report sent out from Ottawa that the total yield was something more than 500,000,000. Presumably it was to this the minister referred.

It so happens that this estimate was not made by the newspapers. It was compiled by the federal bureau of statistics, and given to the papers as an official calculation. It has been understood that the bureau bases its reports upon returns sent in by the departments of agriculture of the provinces. Mr. Hoadley should therefore explain whether his contention is that the returns from those departments are not reliable, or that the bureau can't add. And why, is it her case, the newspapers ought to be slammed with a broadside of censure which amounts to an accusation that the men responsible for their production are either fools or crooks?
